CHAPTER I

Beholde!

The light guided by unforetold current

Shining from a spiral source of the grass

We lay on and seek to ponder tales the moon whispers softly,

Where we become cherished and seen.

Prophet of the complex set in realms of thunderlight:

Stability of the finite and the seen

Falls from realms of our forgotten memories

Where we bear witness new forms of the infinite.

Shelter warmth and shelter wisdom,

For in ages to come and ages to pass the egg will form

In the heart of the earth's core with prophesized temples

As they reach through broken sunlight.

CHAPTER II

Beholde!

The beast of echoes and the echoes of beasts
Resound through meadows in the shadows far
Where flowers in creeks cry out the truth.
Become the heir they will breathe in.

A cave will contain your secrets; watch for it.
Do not stumble as the night marches to war,
Seek the light of the son and do not blink.
Soon, the seven days of sorrow will pass.

Now listen closely: the final peace is in the dream.
You cannot force it. You cannot find it; it finds you.
Do not flee the abyss, for it is your home; indeed,
From whence you came, you shall return.

CHAPTER III

Beholde!

In the realm where sound falls to sleep
And angels observe us with tears of fire,
The winding geometry with pillars of hope lights the way.
Can you see it? The pattern hidden within words?

Collect the pieces of the fractured sunset.
Sail the diamond sea; seek the skull of ash
And find the shell of hope. It is the key.
Beware of the wight who watches.

I leave you with this: the dimension is six.
Multiply it by THE NAME. The answer is before you.
You must decode it. Do so, and find stars.
THE MACHINATIONS OF SONDER HAVE ARRIVED.
